MR. GRANDY

Mr. Grandy, our superintendent of Schools, has done much to improve the standing of the Dover Schools, and his efforts have been greatly appreciated. He is one of our finest citizens. The senior class deeply appreciates his sincere interest in the activities of the Dover school system.

MR. WALKER

Mr. Walker, our principal, has won the respect and admiration of all those who have worked with him. We will remember him as one who has endeavored to make the class of 1952 one of the best to graduate from Dover High School.

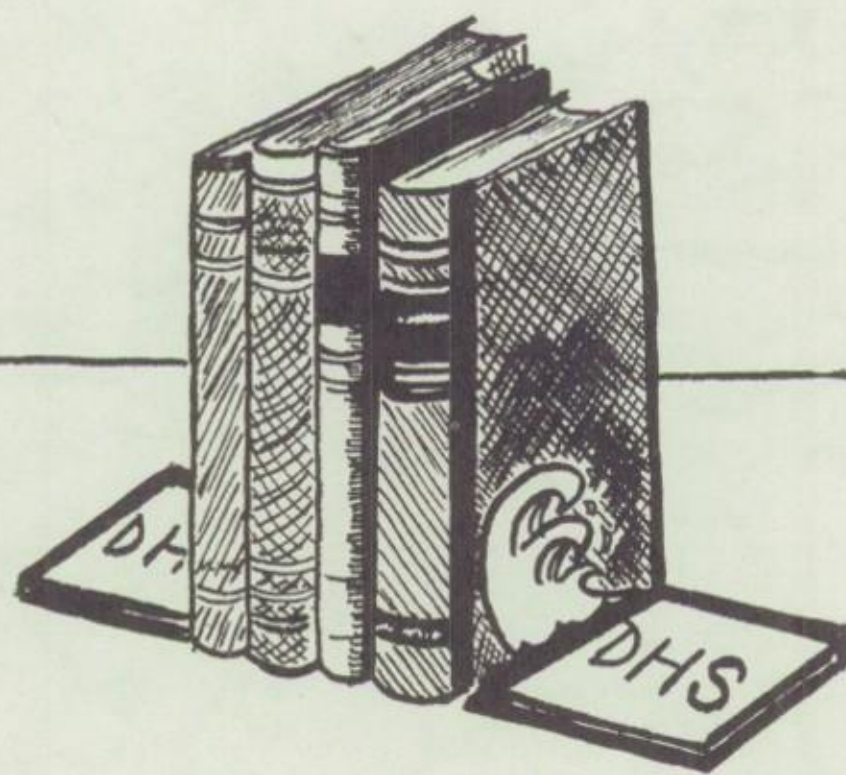

MR. DODGE

Mr. Dodge, our submaster, will be remembered by the class of 1952 for his jovial character and thoughtfulness. We wish to extend our thanks for making these four years among the best.

CLASS HISTORY

Four years Has it really been that long? It hardly seems possible that we could have crowded so many activities, dances, games (and maybe even a bit of knowledge) into our high school career--and that those very same things will form the basis of future memories--happy memories--of Dover High School. But let us begin our reminiscing where we as a class started, in September, 1948.

Wearing confident smiles which we hoped would hide our trembling hands and knocking knees, we miraculously found our home rooms. But our confidence changed to chagrin as we repeatedly went to the wrong rooms and were late to classes. My! The upperclassmen looked superior to us then, but they provided the challenge for leadership which our aggressive class immediately accepted.

We were bursting with pride when the football team went undefeated and became State Champs. And we were also proud of the J.V. teams, which made impressive showings in football and basketball. Of course, many of our classmates were on these squads and that may have accounted for some of our interest.

After a spirited political campaign, Dave Culton was elected president, Lefty Joy vice president, Pat Towle secretary, and Jerry Blais treasurer.

Our freshmen year sailed smoothly on, except for one incident which the upperclassmen would not let us forget. We had planned and worked hard for a Freshman-Sophomore social, and were counting on its success. Well, it was successful---after 9:00, when the orchestra finally arrived after an hour and a half delay.

When we received our report cards in June we felt as if we had already been through four more years of school. But little did we realize what was in store for us.

With the scent of freshly waxed floors and newly sharpened pencils wafted on the breeze, the sophomore class entered the hallowed halls of DHS. We felt at home now, for we knew all the teachers and our fellow classmates. And we could look upon the new freshmen with smiles of pity when we remembered what we had gone through.

To lead us, we chose Tommy Hughes president, Jerry Blais vice president, Pat Towle secretary, and Jack McNally treasurer. They did a good job, and this time the dance sponsored by our class went according to schedule. We made a profit, too!

One of our favorite subjects was biology---probably because we could go on field trips. The trip to Barbadoes Pond occurred on a warm day, and several boys "accidentally" fell in while attempting to capture elusive fish. Fortunately, they had come equipped with bathing suits.

We found the teachers as helpful and wonderful as they had been during our first year, and they became even more highly regarded by the class (as a whole, that is) when the report cards were issued and we found that the class of '52 had more representatives on the Honor Roll than any other class in the school.

Many people in DHS worked hard during the drive to sell magazine subscriptions, and we were well pleased when the drive was a success and we could hear our share of the coins clinking in the treasury. This money was to be used for our senior class trip, graduation expenses, and the like.

The autumn of 1950 arrived, and with it we took another step toward our goal. We were now upperclassmen and mighty proud of the fact. But this feeling of superiority soon wore off as we buckled down to the task of more difficult subjects, homework, and trying to maintain our highly regarded position in the school.

As we had done during our freshman year, we took vocational aptitude and intelligence tests, and were told of the results by our class advisors and Miss McCooey, the guidance director. These teachers were very helpful in aiding our decisions concerning future studies and suitable types of employment.

With the aid of our class officers-Dave Culton president, Henry Bigelow vice president, Pat Towle secretary, and Nancy Doyle treasurer, we selected our class rings. What a wonderful thrill showing them to the underclassmen! The sales of silver polish in Dover must have increased 1000% on the day they arrived.

In the middle of the year, Nancy Doyle moved to California, and Mabel Allen was elected as the new treasurer. Our class had the honor of having a junior, Mabel Allen, elected as Winter Carnival Queen by the whole student body.

The class of '52 was again tops in the school magazine drive, and our chests swelled in proportion to our treasury when Beverly Sinderoff received the cup for being the highest salesman in the whole school.

When spring rolled around, we began preparations for the Junior Prom. It was well worth the effort, for it turned out wonderfully and everyone complimented us on the decorations. Those decorations must have been outstanding, for they remained up until the following November!

Dave Culton was sent to California representing New Hampshire as the state winner in the Humorous Declamation division of the National Forensic League-sponsored contest. We were all proud when he ranked in the semi-finals over contestants from throughout the United States.

Gracious! The year had gone by in such a hurry that we'd just barely become used to being juniors when our senior year was upon us. We settled quickly into the familiar routine---but very happy that we had reached our long awaited goal.

However, the fact that we were seniors didn't really dawn upon us until the first assembly of the year, when we were at last allowed to occupy the coveted front rows. We became even happier when we marched out first, with the underclassmen looking enviously on.

We had no idea of how much there was to be done during our senior year, but we soon found out. The first activity undertaken was the election of class officers. Very competent ones were chosen---Jerry Blais president, Henry Bigelow vice president, Carolyn Potter secretary, and Mabel Allen treasurer.

The next big event was the taking of class pictures. These arrived in time for Christmas, and many relatives and friends commented on their excellence. Work on the '52 "Profile" was begun at about the same time, and pictures of all the clubs and activities were taken for this. We all worked very hard on the yearbook to make it the best one DHS had ever published. Students who sold ads will vouch for this---they came back footsore and wary---but triumphantly grasping the money donated by the advertisers!

We were pleased that so many of the classmates secured starting berths on all the athletic teams, and were even happier at the performance of these teams. The football team got off to a slow start, but we knew they'd pull through---and they did just that, winning six games in a row.

In the early spring, we enthusiastically planned our annual class trip to New York City and Washington, D. C. It was then that we realized what a help the money we had earned during the four years would be. When the time came for us to leave we were very much excited, and during the trip we all had a wonderful time. But we were glad to get back to Dover and catch up on some much-needed sleep.

We were all happy when the marching for the Junior Prom and graduation started. (Some of our glee stemmed from the fact that we were excused from classes.) The Prom was a tremendous success, with the girls looking like fashion models in their new gowns. The boys looked pretty super too, especially with our class flower, the red rose, adorning their lapels.

Before we realized what was happening, Baccalaureate was upon us. It was a solemn and impressive ceremony, as was graduation, at which we knew that we had passed the last milestone in our high school career. But as we realized that this same career was closing, it was with mixed feelings that we viewed the scene. We were glad that we had been able to participate in the numerous clubs, sports, and other activities, and that we had learned many things from the subjects set before us. But we were sad that the time had come for us to leave the school we loved so well, for we knew that never again, except in memories, could we recapture the joys that had been ours throughout four years in Dover High School.

On behalf of the Class of '52,

Alice Chapman
Edith Colbath
Claudia Cottrill
Virginia Glidden
Walter Wilson

CLASS WILL

We, the class of 1952, being of sound (?) mind and body, do make this our last will and testament and hereby bequeath our acquired worldly possessions.

We leave Mr. Walker, our beloved headmaster, thereby relieving him of the great problem of the class of 1952, and sincerely hoping that future classes will not confront him with as many problems as we have.

To Mr. Dodge, we leave the problem of keeping future seniors in their study halls.

Miss McCooey is bequeathed the patience and fortitude to endure future Beverly Sinderoffs.

Mr. Ahearn's modern problems simply leave!

To Miss Taylor, we give our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for making these four years among the best in our lives.

Mr. Peltonen is the fortunate recipient of a large economy-sized bottle of AIR WICK. He'll need it if the experiments of other budding chemists turn out the way ours did!

To Miss Boyd, we leave a collection of new French books with which to teach Fractured French.

And to Mr. Flaherty, Betharlene Weeden leaves her entire collection of cocker spaniels.

Ray Howe's good looks go to any lucky junior who can fully appreciate the huge number of female admirers that are attracted by them.

Sandra Cross' artistic ability goes to Clayton Hubbard. Let's see if you can make some of those super posters for Senior English.

To Mr. Dupuis goes Dewey Lane's unopened math book for future problem children taking solid and trig.

Lawrence O'Connell leaves his glossy, new rubbers for a rainy day to any boy with large feet.

To Stephen Meister go John McDonough's piano lessons at three o'clock. Be on time -- and practice hard!

Mabel Allen bequeaths her queens crown to any junior girl with outstanding personality and charm.

Harry Freeman leaves his excellent attendance record to John Boyle. We're sure the school will benefit by this.

Russell O'Connell is the lucky recipient of Lynn Zimmerman's violin. As an added attraction, she leaves him a pair of soundproof earplugs and the school orchestra music. We can guarantee he'll need both if he stays around DHS for long.

To Jane Mann go Doris Desautel's hectic daily rides on the Wentworth Bus. Think you can stand the strain, Jane?

Bill Lemay wills his quiet ways to Rollie Blood. Keep it down to a dull roar, huh?

Bruce Atherton leaves his blue denim jacket to anyone with a rugged enough physique to fill it.

Jim Mitchell wills his droll sense of humor to George Parks. Give us a smile, George.

To Jerry LaFlamme, Henry Bigelow gives his drivers license. Don't forget to give the girls a ride to school as Henry has faithfully done.

Dirk van den Heuvel's ability to get along with the teachers is left to any junior who wants this gifted talent.

To Verne Brown goes Jimmy Duffy's athletic sweater. If you stop growing, Verne, it might fit.

Lefty Joy's famous coiffure goes to Norma Stiles. It's natural, Norma.

John McKenney, with great pleasure, takes this occasion to will his beaten-up boxing gloves to Dick Hughes.

Jerry Bennett leaves his height to be equally distributed between Don Hatch and Joe Prince.

Harry Curtis gives his cash register job at the First National to anyone having a passion for adding machines -- AND money. See if you can come out even every week -- just try it!

To Spider Viel, Nancy Tear bequeaths her dancing ability, of which she has plenty.

Norman Fogg leaves his tan hat to anyone who dares to wear it. Darers go first!

Janet Grant leaves to go to Ed Wilson, who is overjoyed at the prospect.

Fred Knight leaves Bea Bonneau unprotected and at the mercy of the howling wolves of Dover High School.

Roberta Robinson leaves her bent bobby pins on the floor at the "Vokey."

Phyllis Towne is fortunate enough to receive Frances Smith's ice cream scoop for Strafford Farms Dairy.

Richard Denault will now be able to throw away his silver bows, for he is the lucky recipient of Ed Nelson's horned rims. Keep those specs clean, Dick!

Paul Came is the lucky winner of John Adam's hot rod motor bike.

Charlie Campbell leaves, and takes his rocket ship plans with him. The reason: No one else can understand them.

Ray Mundy leaves his shyness to Alan Vigent. Uh oh!!

To any deserving junior goes the presidency of the F.F.A., with Dick Hebbard's best wishes and the hope that he can get a dance date from the Student Council, too.

To Walter Hubert goes Larry Redden's basketball ability, as well as a few scarred basketballs.

Raymond Twombly leaves his riders with the problem of getting to school.

Roland Cate wills his many years of mechanical training to Bob Plourde in hopes that this will prevent the Plymouth from requiring another motor job.

To Sandra Pevear goes Theani Moutevelis' cheering ability. Bring home another trophy!

Louise Giroux wills her lab apron to anyone who has the perseverance to last through a year of chemistry.

Pat Towle generously donates her ability to stall a car in front of Kagle's to anyone who can do it as well as she does. How about it, Ruthie?

Shirley Gaunya receives Molly Fellows' sunny smile and we hope that she will put it to the best use. Molly certainly has done so.

John Christensen bequeaths his collection of handsomely bound textbooks to Larry Maloney, and hopes he has an arm strong enough to carry them!

Jack McNally leaves his collection of basketball trophies and a can of silver polish to Jazz McKone.

Merrill Rinfret wills the back seat of his car to all the future senior girls. How thoughtful!

To Gordon Berry goes Jamie Higgins' track ability, as well as some shiny silver medals.

Gene Marcotte bequeaths his sideburns to Art Burke, along with a bottle of VITALIS to keep them in top condition.

Rena Vigneault leaves her Pepsodent smile to Phyllis Quimby.

And to any junior with an extra amount of ability, Jerry Blais leaves the presidency of the senior class, and also the headaches accompanying such a position.

Don Meserve leaves his broken hockey stick to Hugh Donovan, along with a sincere wish for an icy winter.

And to Midshipman Kenneth Shorey go Harold Page's Sea Scout merit badges. (There, that was his good deed for the day.)

Norm Allard bequeaths his Pontiac to Art Akerson. Keep it on the road, Art.

Eddie Craig wills his talent for turning out mouth-watering meals to Alice McAllister. She is also blessed with his snappy white chef's cap.

Verna Dame leaves her worn song sheets to Miss DePardo, with the hope that some future soloist will put them to good use.

To Neil Robinson goes Ronnie Bartlett's football managership. Don't spill that water!

June Brazis leaves her good nature to Carl Staples. Ah, he's a lucky guy!

Shirley Hamilton bequeaths her athletic ability-including a rugged pitching arm -- to Carlene Jaques.

And Helen Pineo, the only engaged member of the class of '52, just leaves her class ring, since she has already acquired a more desirable one.

To Ruby Palmer goes Pat Sanville's extensive wardrobe, which we're sure will be in style for years to come.

Carolyn Potter leaves "Sadie Bloom" to any enterprising junior who can fill the shoes (size nine).

Burke Zimmerman is the recipient of Seth Perry's Rocketship XM, Moon men, beware!

To Willie Howard goes Frank Morneault's task of filling the root beer barrel at Woolworth's.

Lorraine Mathieu leaves her black sued shoes to Shirley Seaver. And an old toothbrush for cleaning them has been thoughtfully included.

Janet Henderson's baton goes to Mr. Carter. Sorry, but you'll have to find another twirler.

To Raynor Palmer goes Bill LeMay's seat on the Madbury Bus. In fact, it's already staked out with a RESERVED sign.

Dick Drake wills his double barreled shotgun to Arnold Fowler.

To Sandra Daggett go Shirley Stiles' argyles. Lucky girl, your feet will never get cold.

Marie Carle leaves her home room seat in 101 to Ruth Bassett. It's really very comfortable.

Walter Wilson's mother, the lucky woman, is the favored recipient of Walt's "Western Flyer" bicycle. She'll need it -- he's taking the family car.

Lorraine May leaves some of her many boy friends to Louise Glidden -- if she wants them.

To Sonny Bernier goes Raymond LePage's favorite table at Frenchy's, along with his personal pool cue.

Shirley Kuchulis leaves to her sister Lorraine that noted sportsmanship. How many points can you rack up in one year.

Bob Kelly regretfully gives up his position as stock boy at Lacy's to Bernie Roy.

Dean Towle generously donates his Ford to the fellows at Auto Shop. Fix it up, boys.

Beatrice Coffern gets Barbara Wheeler's saxophone. No need to buy a new reed now.

Madeline St. Laurent gladly gives her long daily walk to Ray's Market to Paulette Watson.

Bob Silver finally leaves the Vocational School after four years, with high hopes of getting a good job.

Elaine Fowler leaves to go to college -- art school, maybe?

Marlene Dent leaves her night life (yawn!) record to Bob Marshall. Get in before two, Bob.

Nancy Willand leaves her battered French book to Shirley King, along with a few translations to help her over the rough spots.

CLASS PROPHECY

I was relaxing in my lonely prison cell (after finding it useless to saw at the bars with my trusty finger nail file) and counting the money that rolled in from the sale of my best seller- "How to Pass Tests at DHS." Of course, one reason it became a best seller was the fact that it had been banned in Boston by that overzealous censor, Pat McCabe. She said it would make school too easy for the students. Just then the warden, Fred Aziz, came in and informed me that I had a visitor, none other than the world-renowned explorer and captor of wild animals, Charles Cate.

Charlie, in his travels about the world, had seen many of our classmates, and proceeded to tell me what they were doing. Larry Nealley had been slightly injured while helping Charlie tame lions, but was soon fixed up and made as good as new by young Dr. Came (known to us in DHS as "Art"), the brilliant surgeon, and his able assistant, Edith Colbath.

While in Hollywood, Charlie had seen Dave Culton, who was starring with Lassie in "Lassie Laughs Last". Phyllis Sullivan had done a super job fixing Lassie's hair, while Barbara Purpura was the make-up expert for Gorgeous George. They both seemed very happy in their jobs, and told Charlie that Gerry Daley was the stunt man who regularly fell out of airplanes, without a parachute, to advertise Allan Bickford's Vitamin Q Bread, "The Bread That Never Falls Without Raising." Vincent McGuinness' job was to hold the safety net for Gerry to land in. When last heard from, Gerry was still in one piece.

Connie Zarillo and Priscilla Marple were also in Hollywood, billed as the "Sunshine Sisters" and singing duets to the accompaniment of a band composed of Herb Brown, tuba, Georgia Appleby, flute, and Theani Moutevelis, accordion. Richard Sanborn added rhythm to the organization by alternately banging on castinets and old tin cans. At last report, they were playing to standing room only.

Traveling to Texas in a hot-rod taxi jointly owned by Charles Carabelas and Steve Tsopas, my friend was startled to see Ora Roberge as the hat check girl in the Purple Derby, owned and operated by Herbie Norman. The specialty of the house was moose steak, smothered in mushrooms---price, $30.00 per plate. The moose were raised by the well-known naturalist, Roy Judd, and flown in from his Alaskan ranch by Ken Clark, ace pilot.

In Louisiana, Charlie stopped at a unique secretarial school run by Gini Glidden, Jean Hamel and Elaine Marcotte. They were teaching pupils how to take shorthand in Russian, explaining that it would be necessary when doing counterspy work for the F.B.I. One of their most famous students had been Tom McShera, who was now with the Secret Service. Of course, the government needed someone to make sure Tom made no slip-ups, so Jake Stillwagon was hired as a counterspy to keep a lookout on Tom. Anita Levesque and Shirley McKinnon were also instructors in this school, and were then teaching teachers how to teach other teachers.

Betty Jaques, the congresswoman known as "Capitol Cutie", often conferred on important issues with her fellow representative, Butch May, who at the time Charlie saw him was trying to get a bill passed outlawing a hair dye invented by Gayle Hoitt and Lorraine Morgan. This dye comes in pink, green, and purple, and according to Butch, "It isn't fit for a dog." Pauline Laliberte and Gloria Crateau were also seen in Washington sporting new mink coats. Upon investigation, it was found that they were highly paid secretaries, and were buying the coats on the installment plan, a pelt at a time, from their boss, Reginald Dudley, the ex-fur trapper who was selling his furs to wealthy Washingtonians.

Feeling in need of relaxation, Charlie had staggered into the super-colossal "Picture Palace" movie theater owned by Bob Leblanc and Haven Hayes, where he was greeted by the friendly smile of Alice Lanouette, who sold him a bag of her latest invention, "Crunchy-Wunchy Popcorn, the Popcorn that Bites Back!" Led down the aisle by Pat Picard (still walking down the aisle!), he was surprised to find Muriel Woodard in the seat next to him. She said she was having a last fling before setting out for the wilds of Africa, where she planned to convert the natives into active bird-watchers. She felt this was a suitable occupation, as it would take their minds off big game hunters such as Frank Wentworth and Frank Davis, who had already been captured by cannibals several times, but were freed by the kindly missionary, Tony Bastianelli. Tony was aided in his good works by "Fireball Pete", a rugged specimen of humanity who was none other than Pete Shibley.

By this time, Charlie was somewhat winded from all the talking he'd done, so he turned on the television set (a super-special model that needed no tubes, wires, OR batteries---it worked on a secret process developed by Ronald Varney) to station WEED, which was owned and operated by Skip Al en and LeRoy Unglaub. We saw the last part of Hank Ellsmore's sports' report, on which he predicted that the Red Sox would win the pennant in 1972. Then announcer Richard Blood came in with a commercial advertising Alice Chapman's beauty preparations. There was a sale on hand lotion, endorsed by Mary Hersey, who said it made her hands soft and beautiful after using only three barrels of it, and you could buy a gallon for only one box top from Ronald Seaver's new, improved soap suds, known as "Gezhundeit" and a dollar, which had Tommy Hughes' picture printed on it.

Then the heart rending program, "Life with Grandma" appeared, starring Bev. Sinder-off as the kindly, gray-haired grandmother and Sandra Adams as her beautiful but hot tempered granddaughter.

Following this was a technicolor program broadcast from Johns Hopkins university and showing Dr. Richard Fournier, noted surgeon, removing the appendix of George Kincaid, a fellow M. D. Dr. Fournier was aided by nurses Pat Flint and Jackie Desautel, who had been forced to give ether to Dr. Kincaid's good friend, Tony Koromilas, an osteopath who had come to view the operation and couldn't bear to see what was happening to his buddy.

Our televising was interrupted by the appearance of Jean Watson and Joan Sowerby in my cell. They were reporters for the "Flatfoot Flash," a newspaper published by John Torr and sold by Paul Gahan, and they had come to find out what prison conditions were like. I told them that the meals were excellent, due to the good food raised by Henry Flanagan on his 10,000 acre farm, and prepared by the students of Mother Deraney's Cooking School, and that my cell had recently been rid of its several thousand former occupants (bedbugs, that is) by Roland Hebert, a representative of Dick Leonard's Exterminating Service. The slogan of this enterprising business was "We kill anything that creeps, crawls, or flies (except old boyfriends) for a fee." Joan and Jean thanked me, and gave the facts to their efficient secretary, Pearl Palmer (who wrote them down in a new shorthand system developed by Cecile Michaud) and departed. Charlie informed me that not only had Sis become famous for her shorthand, but that she, Joan Fredette, and Marilyn Morrisette were employed at the United Nations Building taking shorthand in Greek, Mongolian and other languages spoken at the Council meetings.

We resumed our televising, and were in the midst of watching a thrilling wrestling match featuring George Demers and a weird creature known as the "Golden Gorilla," in which George had his foot in the "Gorilla's" mouth and seemed to be winning, when two kindly representatives from the Salvation Army, Beverly Timmons and Claudia Cottrill, marched in. They unloaded a basket of goodies, including a gallon of ice cream manufactured by Hazel Frost's Frosty Snowman Frozen Foods Factory. As we were enjoying the ice cream, eaten in paper cups filched from the water-cooler, they told me the good news. I was to be released from jail, per order of the governor's trusted secretary, Madeline Bisson. Yippee!! No more will I be confined behind bars! And I've already got a title picked out for my next book---"How to Land in Jail in One Easy Lesson." Maybe it'll be another best seller. Who knows?

SCHOOL LIFE

SCHOOL LIFE

"School life." Into that deceptively simple phrase goes everything that composes a student's four years of high school, from the moment he quakingly enters at the beginning of his freshman year until he proudly receives his diploma on graduation day. Yes, in those two words there is a wealth of memories, pleasant ones, as well as the knowledge accumulated during this time.

Because there are so many subjects from which to choose, each student is registered in the particular field in which his interests lie, and in which he plans to choose his vocation. These are grouped under the headings of cosmetology, academic, commerce, trades and industry (electricity, sheet metal, cooks and bakers, cabinet-making, auto mechanics and machine work), agriculture, and home economics. The cosmetology and trades and industry courses are housed in a separate building, the Davis Area Vocational School, and are available to pupils from many surrounding communities, as well as Dover. This school is one of the best equipped in the state, and its many varied courses are integrated with those offered in the high school, thus providing a well balanced education for the vocational pupil. Of course, the students in the main high school building also receive a substantial education, which prepares them for entrance to college or the business world. English is required of all students, and they may take subjects ranging from bookkeeping, biology and art to homemaking, trigonometry and history.

To help the students select the subjects best suited to their needs and desires, a guidance department has been established, with Miss Margaret McCooley as its capable and beloved director. Aptitude and intelligence tests are given to all freshmen and juniors. These aid in determining future work, as well as present subjects. The guidance staff also provides the proper references so necessary for college and job applications, helps deserving students to secure scholarships, and gives sound advice to DHS'ers having personal problems.

However, the life of a DHS pupil would not be complete without the athletic contests, club activities, dances and special events which are a vital necessity in the development of a well rounded personality.

The prowess of the football and basketball teams has made our high school an opponent to be feared on the football field and basketball court. The peppy cheerleaders have done much to improve the school spirit at the games. (We fans like to think it was partly because of our cheering that Dover beat Manchester Central in the final minute of the basketball game and emerged victorious over Spaulding High by scoring six points in a breathless exciting overtime period!) Less publicized, but just as important, are the hockey, rifle, ski, track, baseball, cross country and J.V. teams, which help to build muscular coordination and a strong spirit of teamwork. All girls' sports are sponsored by the Girls' Athletic Association, which is also noted for its annual Winter Carnival Week-end and dance, one of the big events of the school year. The highlight of this week-end is the election of the Carnival Queen and her two aides, who reign over the festivities.

Another much anticipated social event of the year is the Fall Harvest Dance sponsored by the Future Farmers of America. As at the Carnival Ball, there is a queen elected by the student body and crowned at the dance. This year a live turkey was given away as a door prize, and added much hilarity to an already successful dance. But the biggest and best dance of the year is the Junior Prom, the only formal dance. The grand march, composed of all the members of the senior class, draws admiring stares from the other dancers and interested parents, not to mention envious glances from the "under-classmen", who hope that they, too, may look as glamorous when the time comes for them to march.

Clubs and various group organizations are also an integral part of our school life, and a very important one. Many a verbal battle has been fought and won by the Forensic club's debating teams which have placed very well in state speech activities. The annual Perkins Prize Speaking contest and Encore Club activities further elocution and dramatic abilities, as well as providing much enjoyment for the spectators. Music ranks high on the list when it comes to student participation. A combined chorus of over one hundred and twenty-five voices has entertained many, including themselves, for it is one of the most expressive, creative, and "just plain fun" activities with which we are blessed. The band runs parallel with the chorus, as any D.H.S. student will testify, after having heard "Red Rhythm Valley", a jazzed-up version of "Red River Valley"! Representatives of the band, orchestra, and chorus have been sent to the ALL State Festival, held this year in Rochester, and two students were lucky enough to be chosen to attend the ALL New England Festival in New Britain, Connecticut. The French and Latin clubs promote interest in their respective languages, while those with scientific interest may join the Science or Biology clubs. The Future Homemakers of America, open to both boys and girls (although no male has had the courage to join yet!) provides an outlet for those talented in sewing, cooking, and the like, while Tri-Hi-Y, an organization for Christian girls, is primarily a club which serves the community in various ways and meets with out representatives from all over the state to aid in the understanding and promotion of good government. The "School Spirit", our school magazine published quarterly, and the yearbook allow students who enjoy writing to exercise their talents.

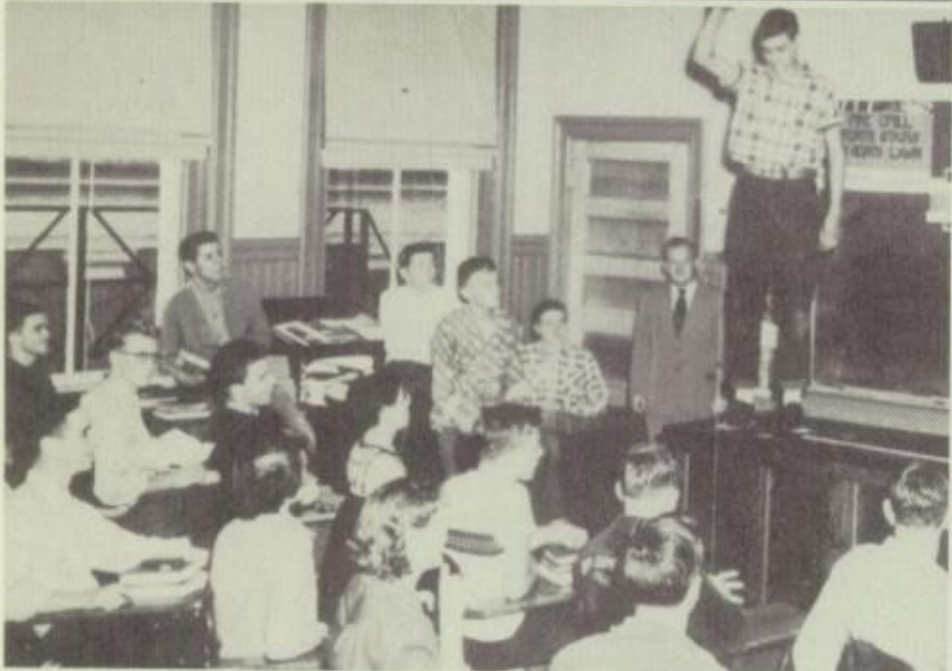

The pupils of Dover High are also fortunate in having one of the most active student councils in New England. It is through their efforts that we have been able to have a Series of professional assemblies presented before the whole student body. Singers, lecturers, pianists, actors, violinists, explorers, all of exceptional talent, have provided enjoyment for us in recent years.

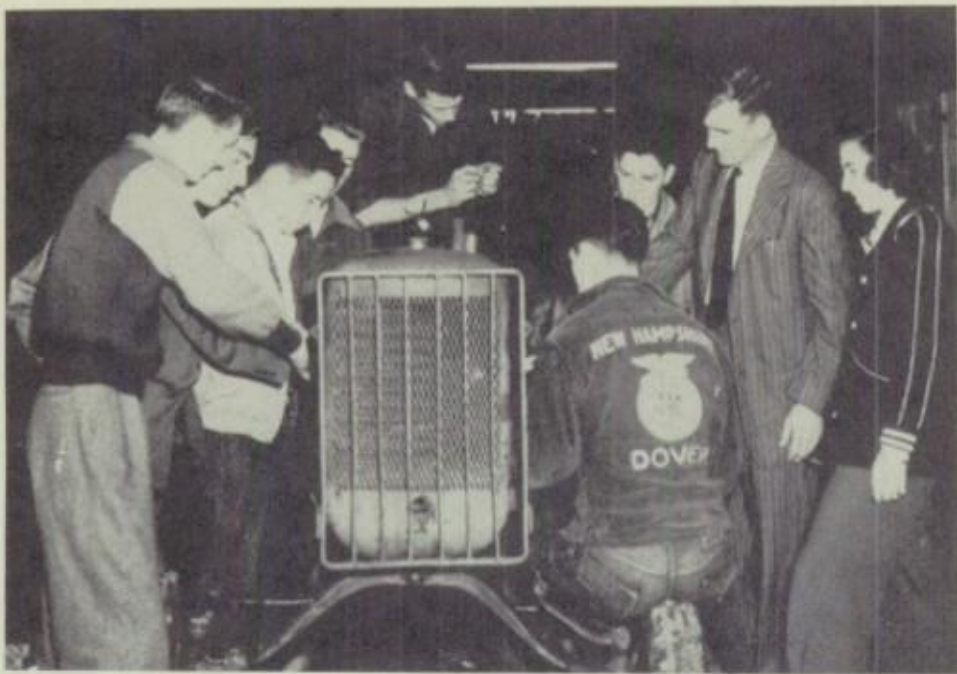

Many changes have taken place in our high school -- new books, new desks, an improved third floor with excellent laboratory facilities, and perhaps the best thing of all, a public address system. The voices coming out of the wall speakers were a little startling at first, but now we wouldn't be without such a system.

But all these things, and many others too numerous to mention, would not be possible without the teachers, to whom we owe everlasting gratitude for their patience, sympathetic attitude, and their unselfish desire to help all students at all times. Without them, we would have no school, and were it not for our teachers, this tribute to our way of life in Dover High School could not have been written.

SPORTS

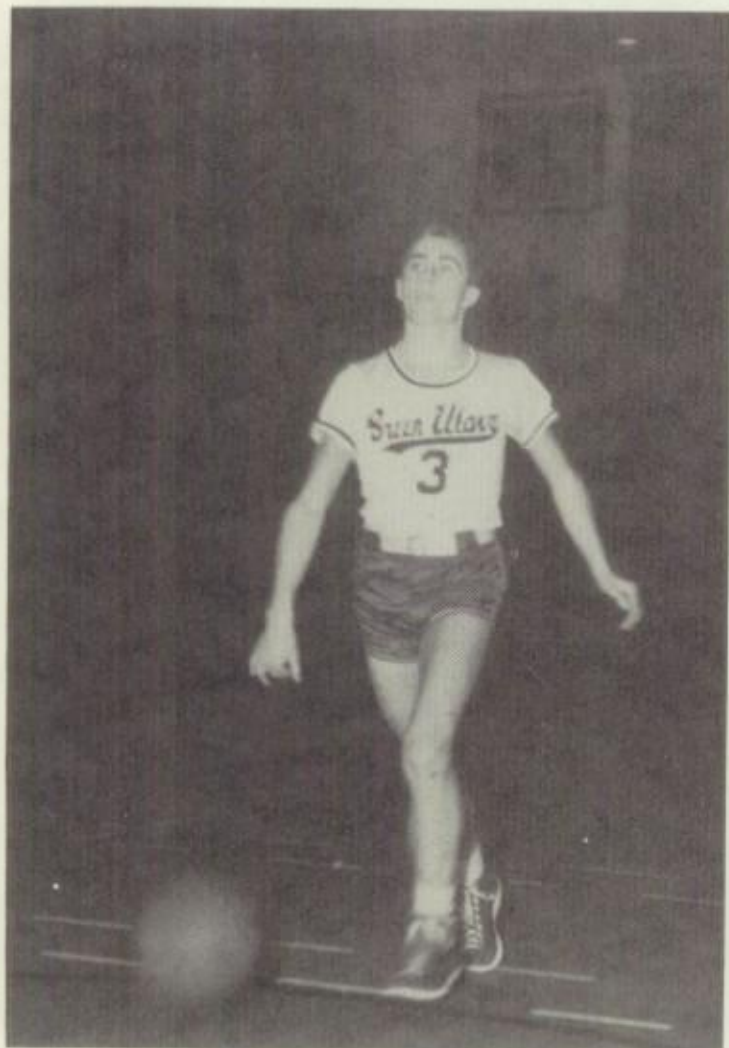

SPORTS

After completing a successful year in the field of sports, the class of '52 may well feel proud of itself. In football the boys were off to a rocky start but as the season progressed they improved, thanks to such backs as "Butch" May, Tony Bastianelli, John Christensen and John McKenney, as well as the excellent line play of Tommy Hughes, Norman Allard, Pete Shibley, Henry Bigelow, Larry Maloney, and Don Meserve. While receiving many bad breaks the Green Wave still managed to capture third place in the Class "A" division with a record of six wins, two ties, and two losses. The two big victories came in defeating Manchester Central and Portsmouth.

The Green Wave made such an outstanding showing throughout the season that four of the team were chosen for the second ALL-State team led by Tony Bastianelli, who was the chosen captain. Those selected were Norman Allard, who excelled on defense as well as offense; Butch May, an excellent back; Don Meserve, a hard charging guard; and Tony Bastianelli. Much credit goes to Coaches Adams and Flaherty for the time and effort that they gave in producing the team and we hope that they will be as successful next year.

The cross country team, coached by Mr. Bergeron, was next to bring honor to Dover High. Paced by Captain Walt Wilson, the team ranked high among the top six teams in the state. Two underclassmen, Robert Marshall and Bernard Roy, made a good showing this year and will undoubtedly pace the team to many victories next year.

Of course, Coach Flaherty's basketball team showed well throughout the season, not only in winning games but in displaying outstanding sportsmanship. Jack McNally again averaged twenty points per game and during our Good Sportsmanship Week was chosen as the "outstanding sport of the year" together with Cecile Michaud.

The Green Wave, paced by such outstanding seniors as Larry (Honk) Neally, Jim Duffy, Butch May, Henry Bigelow, and, of course, Jack McNally, their captain, got off to a bad start by dropping two to Portsmouth both by two points, but proved that they were champions by refusing to give up. Coach Flaherty deserves our congratulations for coaching the team to victory. We are hoping that Bob Marshall and Jack McKone will set as fast a pace next year.

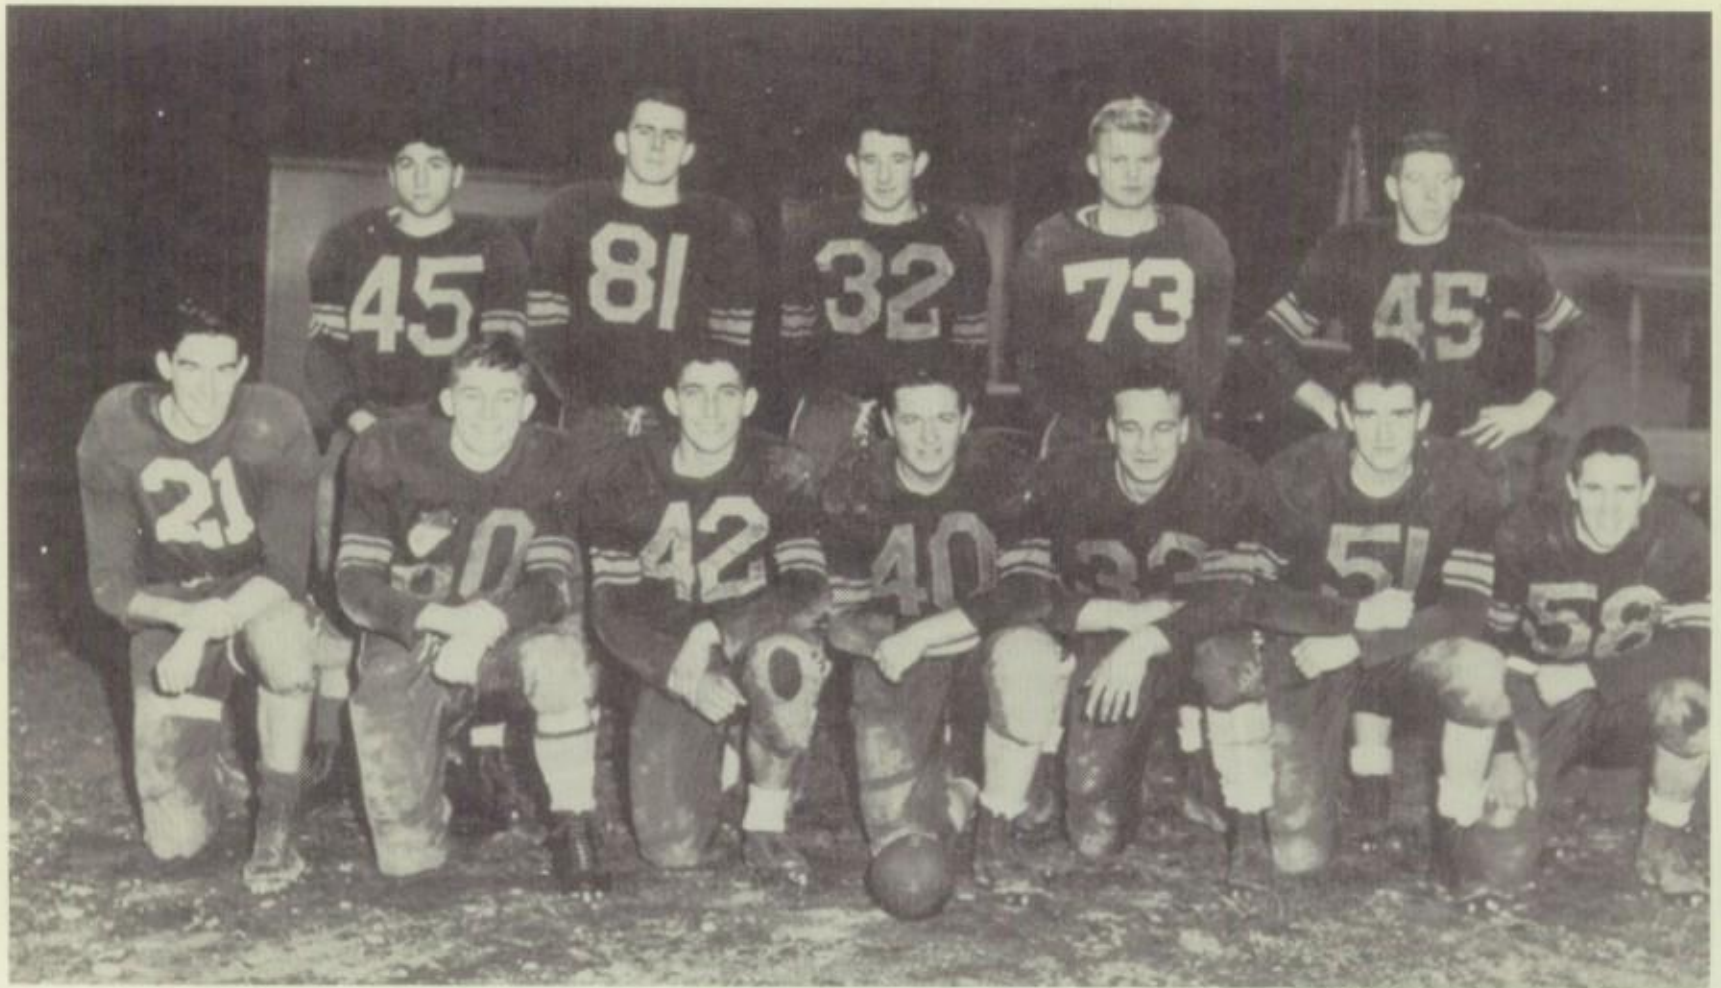

At the same time that the basketball season was in full swing, our hockey team was displaying its strength on the ice. Coached by Mr. Bergeron and with such seniors as Don Meserve, Edward Craig and Fres Aziz, the team, suffering only one bad defeat to Berlin, build quite a record. We are glad that the fellows had good ice this year, so that they could show their power.

The ski team also made an impressive showing on our ski slopes. With the Blood brothers, Roland and Earl, and also Ron Varney receiving honors in the state meet, we were proud to claim our skiers as some of the best in the state. Coached by Mr. Ahearn, the squad excelled in team work and co-ordination.

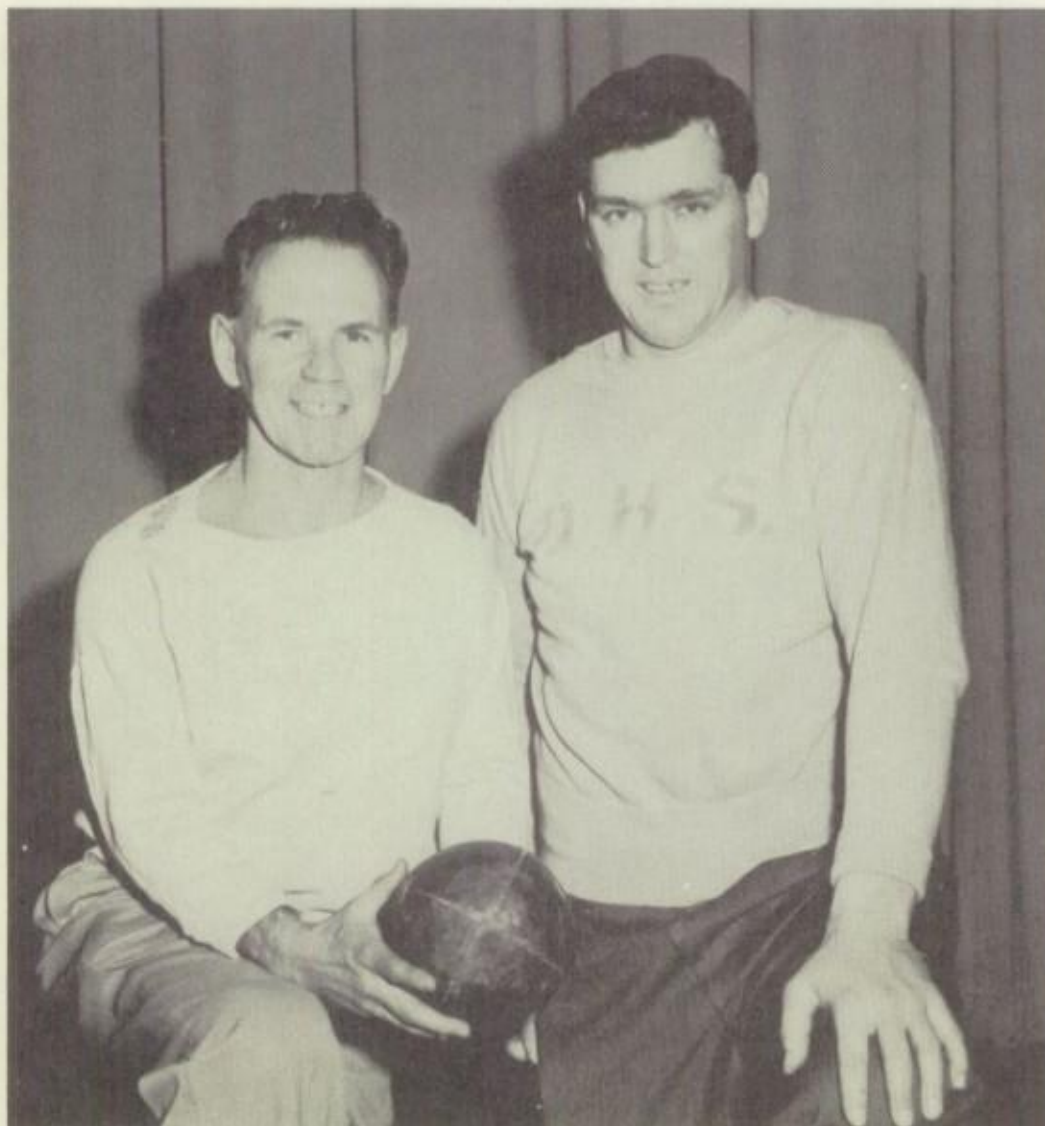

Of course, varsity sports were not the only sports in the school. Intramurals found the Old Pro's, captained by Hank Ellsmore; the Indians, captained by Frank Davis; and the Porkers, captained by "Lefty" Joy; battling it out for first place honors. The girls, too, produced some of the better athletics in the state. Besides the G.A.A. basketball league the girls led all the cheers at our games. Theani Moutevelis was chosen as the 1951 "Miss Cheerleader".

We were proud of all the athletics of our class and we take great pride in thanking the coaches for the time and effort that they spent in making the sports of '52 successful.
